DD/S [REDACTED]

25 May 1965

1. Mr. Kirkpatrick queried me about the necessity for a heliport. I explained that the heliport was being planned in connection with the new parking lot at minimal additional cost, and he finally agreed that we should proceed. I assume that he learned about the heliport through the information copy of Bob Bannerman's approval of the expenditure of an additional $99,000 in connection with the parking lot. I was surprised to learn that a good bit of this amount was justified for the heliport.

2. I interviewed [REDACTED] at the request of General [REDACTED]. He appeared to have qualifications which might be of interest to DD/S&T, so I turned him over to [REDACTED] for further interview.

3. Mr. Kirkpatrick buzzed to say that I had missed a special Executive Committee Meeting at 1330 hours. This meeting resulted from a Cabinet meeting this morning at which the President expressed great concern about the leak regarding FBI activity in the [REDACTED] probe. Kirk asked me to publish a Headquarters Notice promptly admonishing everyone to comply with [REDACTED]. This has been done.

4. Emmett Echols and [REDACTED] were in to brief me on a Presidential directive requesting that each Government agency hire one additional summer employee for each one hundred employees on the regular payroll as part of his Youth Opportunity Program. The selections should be based on economic need and educational opportunity which might not otherwise be available. This means that we will have to find employment for [REDACTED] people in addition to the summer-only employees we have already hired. I think that we can work this out by using these youngsters on public works-type programs at the [REDACTED] and perhaps a few in the Headquarters area.

5. Howard Osborn and I met with the Director this morning.

a. We discussed security arrangements for the Hawthorne Street house. The Director wanted everything the Office of Security had recommended.

b. The Director raised with me again the possibility of providing an apartment for the DCI on the top floor of one of our office buildings. I told him that I thought he would need legislation to do this. In any case, Howard and I both discouraged him from giving further consideration to an apartment for security reasons. H

c. I expressed some concern about the builder he would have to use if he builds a house on the Savile Lane lot. He asked me to get in touch with Bill Miller of the W. C. and A. N. Miller Development Company to see if he had a lot in Northwest Washington or nearby Maryland on which this house could be built. I telephoned Mr. Miller. He had no lot that would be large enough except in the Potomac, Maryland, area. [REDACTED] believes that the Director will need at least an acre lot for the house he has in mind.

d. The Director surprised me somewhat by seeming a little pessimistic about getting legislation to build Government-owned houses on Agency premises. I told him that we would need $200,000 to build houses for the DCI and DDCI. He thought that he could get no more than $50,000, and this amount would not build any house of which we could be proud. H

6. Bob Fuchs and I briefed Dick Helms on the background of DDCI certification of the expenditure of confidential funds since Dick was to sign his first voucher for approximately [REDACTED]. He liked the format and wanted to continue it. He asked Bob to bring these vouchers to him personally for the next two or three months and to give him appropriate briefings at that time.

9. I met with Howard Osborn and [REDACTED] to talk further about the [REDACTED] case. I wrote a memorandum to the Director of [REDACTED]

Security giving him further instructions in this case and suggesting that, if [REDACTED] is not satisfied with the way we are handling her case, she should be encouraged to appeal to the Inspector General.
